The birth of Jesus Christ according to the Gospel of Saint Luke, Chapter two:

And it came to pass in those days, that there went out a decree from Cæsar Augustus, that all the world should be taxed. And this taxing was first made when Cyrenius was governor of Syria. And all went to be taxed, everyone into his own city. And Joseph also went up from Galilee out of the city of Nazareth, into Judæa, unto the City of David, which is called Bethlehem; because he was of the house and lineage of David: To be taxed with Mary his espoused wife, being great with child. And so it was, that, while they were there, the days were accomplished that she should be delivered. And she brought forth her first-born son, and wrapped him in swaddling clothes and laid him in a manger; because there was no room for them in the inn. And there were in the same country shepherds abiding in the field, keeping watch over their flock by night.

And, lo, the angel of the Lord came upon them, and the glory of the Lord shone round about them: and they were sore afraid. And the angel said unto them: Fear not, for, behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people. For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Savior, which is Christ the Lord. And this shall be a sign unto you; Ye shall find the babe wrapped in swaddling clothes, lying in a manger. And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God, and saying, Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men.

A Green Christmas For Andover Teachers

Tentative agreement on teacher contracts raised holiday spirits among the negotiators Thursday night and raised most teachers' salaries by $500.

Both the school committee and Andover Education negotiating teams must obtain ratification from the member bodies. Also, Administrative salaries and pay for extracurricular jobs are still pending, but both Mrs. Virginia Cole for the School Committee and AEA bargainer Ralph Duncan view their agreement as virtually complete.

Mrs. Cole told the TOWNSMAN it was extremely important to have reached agreement this early, so as not to interfere with the recruitment of the excellent teacher candidates she felt the new salary scale would attract. Both expressed their satisfaction with the amicable attitude that prevailed at the bargaining table, and both felt that in the newly worded working conditions, real progress for the school system, had been achieved in a short time.

The new terms set starting salaries for inexperienced teachers with a bachelor of arts degree at $6,700, instead of the present $6,200. This $500 raise continues across the board, except for teachers at the last step and maximum pay of the bachelor's pay scale, who will receive a $300 raise to $9,700. The School Committee insisted on this smaller hike for teachers who have not moved, through advanced study, from the bachelor's to the master's track after 12 years. This is in line with school committee policy of attracting and encouraging master's degrees and beyond on the school faculty.

The master's scale, starting at $7,400, rises to $12,000 at the end of 15 years. Step-by-step raises are dependent on the teacher completing approved study increments at specified points on the scale.

Nurses and dental hygienists won $100 across the board raises, and will be covered by as many of the items of the contract's working conditions as they can be legally associated with.

The AEA had reopened the contract in November with demands for an $800 across the board raise for Unit A (teacher), $400 for Unit C (nurses and dental hygienists) plus numerous changes in working conditions.

Progress was steady on incorporating the old 1966 Salary Policy into the contract, so the new document would contain all policies for administering the school department, and so that personnel positions and school department proceedings could be regularized.

Salary proposals, however, and some working conditions seem politely stalemated until SC negotiator Mrs. Cole submitted a package proposal on Dec. 16.

The AEA rejected this, but submitted its own package in a counterproposal which included most of the agreed-on working conditions, and dropped or lowered some AEA demands.

Compromise came Thursday after rounds of dickering and caucusing on both sides. The union dropped its demand for department head raises, accepted a lower raise for the bachelor's maximum, and won a compromise $100 Unit C raise from the committee team of Mrs. Cole and Dr. Richard A. Katz, school committee chairman.

Salaries for administrators (Unit B) and pay for extra-curricular jobs will be settled when the negotiators meet again on Jan. 6. The first was delayed because the New England Development Council, retained to make a survey of Andover administrative salaries, turned in his recommendations only Wednesday.

AEA officials are working on applying to all extra-curricular jobs, including coaching, a new formula whose point system is based on hours required of the teacher, his experience and a responsibility index. Mrs. Cole said she was very pleased with the formula and was looking forward to seeing how it will work out when applied to the positions. She praised the AEA team's presentations and careful preparation.

GIANT TREE. This magnificent Christmas tree on the property of Christopher L. Muller, 125 High Plain Road, is a legend in itself. Mr. Muller planted the giant fir when he was five years old and placed two strings of lights on it. Today it is over 50 feet in height and is illuminated by over 500 bulbs.

Flu Hampers Postal Operations

The Andover post office was doing its best to get the record holiday mail delivered by today, but were suffering from the handicap which has hit industry hard—the flu.

Postmaster Frank J. Mooney said the local clerks and carriers had been handling the volume very well up until Monday, when the local facility was hit hard by the flu putting several men out sick.

He said he felt that all packages and greetings would be delivered, but it was going to be difficult.

The department picked up volume during the past week, and surpassed last year's record holiday total. Off about eight per cent a week ago, compared to the same time a year ago, by Saturday the figures showed the local office had processed 73,360 more pieces of mail than in 1967.

As of Monday, there had been 1,224,910 pieces of mail processed as compared to 1,151,547 last year.

Weather problems did not hamper deliveries although there was some snow and slushy going a couple of days.

There were no Sunday deliveries in town, the postmaster reported. With proper manpower today, all mail will have reached its destination, Mooney said.

Andover Men In Space Project

A number of Andover men have an important part in the success of the Apollo 8 lunar spacecraft now on its way on a trip around the moon.

They are all employed by Avco in Lowell which made the protective heat shield for the spacecraft. The shield already tested in prior space flights, protects the astronauts against heat of re-entry into the earth's atmosphere at which temperatures reach 5,000 degrees Fahrenheit.

The Andover men involved in the project are:

Christmas Arrives In Andover

Christmas, the joyous holiday will be observed Wednesday.

The cares and troubles of the world are forgotten as the annual observance brings about family gatherings and tidings of joy are spread throughout the town.

For many the annual observance will begin with worship services. Most all Andover churches will have special musical programs, some beginning tonight with traditional Christmas eve services.

At St. Augustine's church services will begin at 11:30 tonight and continue with midnight Mass.

There will be a 7 p.m. family candlelight choral communion at 7 tonight in Christ Episcopal church, and candlelight festal choral communion at 11 p.m.

Worship services are scheduled for 7:30 and 11:15 tonight at Ballard Vale United church.

A Christmas Eve service will be held at Unitarian-Universalist church at 7:30 p.m.

For many there will be family reunions, some returning to Andover, while other local families visit in out-of-town locations.

Naturally, for the youngsters, it will be the culmination of weeks of anxiety with the arrival of Santa Claus and the fulfillment of their hopes for new toys.

In anticipation of the arrival several fathers will go through the frustrating experience of assembling the supposedly "easy to put together," items tonight.

The weeks of tedious hustle and bustle along the shopping areas comes to a close with the placement of gaily wrapped gifts under the Christmas tree.

In general, the festive holiday has arrived, and in a sense, will too soon be over for another year.

Additional Blood Donors Are Needed

Additional blood donors are urgently needed for the one-day Holiday Bloodmobile on Friday at the South Church. The unit will be open from 12:45 to 6:30.

William N. Perry, Chairman of the Andover Red Cross Blood Program stresses the critical blood shortage and the particular need of a supply to meet the increased emergencies of the winter holidays.

Early registrations have been received from Andover industries which regularly support the bloodmobiles. These include the Shawheen Motor Mart, New England Milk Producers Association, Reichhold Chemical, Tyer Rubber Co., the Masons, the Knights of Columbus, Internal Revenue Service and Raytheon.

Mr. Perry explains that anyone 18 and through their 60th year, weighing 110 pounds as a minimum, in good health, is eligible to donate. Appointments may be made at the Andover Chapter but "walk-ins" will also be welcomed.

IRS Employees Obtain Tree As Memorial

The beautiful 30-foot Balsam Fir tree in front of the Internal Revenue Service Center on Lowell Street, was purchased and planted by the employees of the center.

Rather than buy a tree each Christmas, the employees contributed funds to purchase a living tree which can serve as a Living Memorial. General Services Administration, in charge of government buildings, granted permission to have the tree planted in front of the building.

Charlie Brown Makes It To The Top

Charlie Brown's Christmas Tree is East Junior High's do-it-yourself Christmas decoration, and thereby hangs a tale.

It seems that Audio Visual Head Robert Bachman put up a sign on the AV bulletin board appealing to his AV students to dream up some Christmas decor, and Robert Keck, the first sign-up, was automatically chairman of the crew.

Bob appealed to his parents, who let him chop down a backyard white pine at six a.m. the next morning, before the bus came.

When Bachman saw the slightly spindly tree, he remarked that it looked like a "Charlie Brown kind of Christmas Tree, - it needs love." The theme sprang from the "Charlie Brown's Christmas" show viewed on television the night before.

Bachman sketched out Charlie Brown, on plywood, the industrial arts department painted him, and the Charlie Brown Christmas Tree Crew mounted the whole thing on top of East Junior High, rigging it with floodlights that light up the display from 4:40-9:30 p.m., so that Charlie Brown's Christmas tree can get the attention and love it needs from passersby. Anything lacking? Linus' blanket. No one could spare one big enough to wrap around the tree.

Permit Granted To Company

The Andover Electrical Contracting Co., located off Andover Street in Ballardvale, has been granted a variance to construct a building for consumer services be the zoning board of appeals, according to a decision, filed this week with the town clerk.

William Maruzzi petitioned the board for the variance in order to allow construction of a steel prefabricated building, 30 by 60 feet, to allow for storage of trucks and equipment and also office space.

At a hearing held in November before the board, Atty. Burton Shaker told the board of appeals that the trucks are limited in number and that the pattern of operations is that the trucks leave the site in the morning for contract locations. Workmen generally report to the contract site, rather than the shop, he said.

The petitioner requested the permission in order that customers may do business there, although this is an infrequency of the operation, counsel told the board.

The lot in question is narrow, the board found and also noted that traffic on Andover street is increasing.

In the decision, the board found that relief could be granted without detriment to the public good, or derogation from the zoning by-law.

In granting the variance and the special permit, the board placed special conditions. It states that the building must be no less than 60 feet from the southwest lot line and have a 25 foot setback from Andover street.

Existing plantings on Andover street must be maintained and parking will be restricted to a suitable area.

Also, the variance and special permit will be granted to the Andover Electrical Co., only, and any conveyance of the property must be brought before the board for continued use by any business other than the Maruzzi firm.

Since 1962, some 25,000 persons in rural poverty areas have taken training in agricultural and related occupations. These farmer upgrading projects, funded under the Manpower Development and Training Act, are planned in cooperation with agricultural and educational agencies.

Driving Course At Raytheon

A course in "defensive driving" sponsored by the Massachusetts Safety Council, Inc., will be at the Raytheon plant, beginning Jan. 9.

The course is offered Thursday nights in both Andover and Raytheon from 7 to 9 p.m.

In the past two years, drivers have had the Driving Course through the Massachusetts Safety Council. The total is 1,000,000. The Massachusetts Safety Council graduates next year.

The Defensive Driving is an 8 hour program. It has been proven to reduce totals and related costs through accident prevention. Instruction is by voice, charts, general discussion, color sound motion pictures.

The Massachusetts Safety Council program is being offered 2 hours 7-9 p.m. four months. Courses will be month until May. For registration and schedules call night-the Massachusetts Council in Boston at 523-02108. Write to 20 Beacon Street 02108.

The course instills in the driver the ability to see the accident situation developing in respect for traffic accident prevention. After DDC he will see that it really doesn't matter who is legally right or wrong. Staying out of an accident matters.

Bermuda A Haven For Lost Birds

By Wayne Hanley

Bermuda is a haven for lost birds, many of which strayed off course after leaving New England.

On a recent visit which ran into early November, we were with a group of New England birders that saw 100 species on Bermuda. Since only 21 bird species breed on Bermuda and three species were not available for counting, the score meant that 82 species of birds had been lucky enough to find this pinpoint of land in a vast ocean. These birds were survivors from the perils that beset birds in fall migration. For each bird that had the good fortune to find Bermuda before running out of fuel, there must have been thousands that perished at sea.

When on foreign soil, one often discovers that the common birds of home can become rare exotics. For instance, the song sparrow is present the year around in most of New England and in summer is one of our more abundant birds. The song sparrow we saw on Bermuda at Spittal Pond Sanctuary was a most remarkable bird to David Wingate, Bermuda conservation officer. Wingate said it was the fourth bird of the species that had been recorded for Bermuda.

There were dozens of juncos on Bermuda, which surprises those who think of the junco purely as a northern winter bird. The wood warblers common to New England also were present in great numbers, particularly such birds as the redstart, palm warbler and blackpoll. There also were about a dozen snipe, 21 golden plovers and perhaps 50 black-breasted placers. Pectoral sandpipers were common at the few brackish ponds on the island.

All of these birds are familiar to New England birders. Probably many of them left the coast of Maine, Massachusetts, Rhode Island or Connecticut for an overseas flight to the south. Sometimes strong winds blow them off course. Since many of the birds could be identified readily as immatures born last summer, they may have reached Bermuda through faulty navigation.

Most of us think of Bermuda in terms of Bermuda shorts and a tropical climate without much thought of the island's unique relationship to New England. The island is oceanic rather than tropical. Although it lies almost due east of Cape Hatteras, North Carolina, the island is nearer New England than most other coastal points. It is 776 miles south of Boston and 774 miles southeast of New York City. From Washington, D. C., Bermuda lies 822 miles east southeast and from Miami the distance is 1029 miles. It is a fish-hook shaped island of 24 square miles. It lies broadside to New England, offering birds a target 15 miles wide.

The birds most likely to arrive at Bermuda are the long-distance migrants that normally leave New England's coast to fly nonstop over the ocean to northern South America or the Caribbean. The blackpoll, for instance, is the commonest warbler on Bermuda in the fall and it flies the ocean route. Only blackpolls that become distressed apparently land on the island.

Most of the 21 bird species that breed in Bermuda came from North America. The native birds that are more typical of Bermuda than the mainland are the white-tailed tropic bird, the Bermuda cahow (which is among the world's rarer birds), Audubon's shearwater and the Bermuda race of white-eyed vireo. The three species that we failed to see were the cahows, which are nocturnal birds that live on almost inaccessible islands; the Audubon's shearwater, an oceanic bird that still was at sea and will not return until late November, and the wild canary, an import from the Azores that is extremely rare.

A course in "defensive driving", sponsored by the Massachusetts Safety Council, Inc., will be offered at the Raytheon plant, Shawsheen beginning Jan. 9.

The course is offered for four Thursday nights in both January and February from 7 to 9 p.m.

In the past two years over 6,000 drivers have had the Defensive Driving Course through the Massachusetts Safety Council. The national total is 1,000,000. The Massachusetts Safety Council goal is 6,000 graduates next year.

The Defensive Driving Course is an 8 hour program that has been proven to reduce accident totals and related costs up to 80% through accident prevention. Instruction is by voice, charts, diagrams, general discussion and color sound motion pictures.

The Massachusetts Safety Council program is being offered for 2 hours 7-9 p.m. four nights a month. Courses will be run each month until May. For registration forms and schedules call-day or night-the Massachusetts Safety Council in Boston at 523-5985 or write to 20 Beacon Street, Boston 02108.

8th Graders Bring Santa To International Institute

Mrs. Philip B. Weld and Mrs. Lawrence Tuttle were co-chairmen for a Christmas party held last week for the Spanish speaking children of the area, sponsored by the Andover - No. Andover Parents League, in the community rooms of the International Institute in Lawrence.

Well over one hundred children attended the party ranging in age from six months thru twelve years. Peter Tuttle, in the role of Santa Claus, distributed 150 presents. The gifts were purchased by Parents League and wrapped by eighth grade students.

The Boys Club of Lawrence furnished bus transportation for the youngsters and their parents, who were natives of Puerto Rico. Many of them could speak very little English and had never seen a Christmas tree or Santa Claus before.

The Institute staff, worked with Mrs. Weld and Mrs. Tuttle on preparations for the party. The games played were devised, constructed, and supervised by the following eighth grade members of Parents League: Stick the Star on the Tree:

Christmas Program

Over 250 youngsters took part in a musical Christmas program at West Junior High on the last day of school before Christmas vacation began Friday afternoon.

The school band, the eighth and ninth grade choral groups, the boys' glee club, the seventh grade glee club cooperated with Santa Claus, who paid a surprise visit, to the gaily decorated school.

After the band played the Christmas Parade March, the audience sang "The First Noel," and the choral groups performed Silent Night.

Students Rose Elder, Mari Myrick, Stephen Becker, Glenn Gilday and Eric Christopher were narrators, and interspersed, the audience heard the choral groups sing "The Carol of the Bells," "Good Christian Men, Rejoice," "Do You Hear What I Hear?" and "O Holy Night." The musical program ended with everyone singing "Hark The Herald Angels Sing," and "O Come All Ye Faithful."

Edward P. Grigoli, head of the music department, was program coordinator, with the script in charge of David Mudson, music teacher. Choral groups were under the direction of Keith Gould, and Maxine Colt accompanied. Martin Tarlaian conducted the band, and Doris Bernardin of the English department directed the narration in the program.

Styles in makeup change just like styles in clothing. New makeup tricks are being discovered every day. And as you gain more knowledge about it, you get prettier. Today's look is soft, feminine, fragile and translucent. Here are some of the best makeup secrets to turn you into an irresistible beauty: When you wear your hair in an up do, put blusher on your earlobes. Pow! . . . To go all out with translucent makeup, leave your eyebrows naturally bare and ruffle them a bit with your brush. . . Brown eyes look fantastic with white shadow on the lid, charcoal smudgy powder above the crease, and pink highlighter under the brow. Hairstyles are constantly changing too. Come to CAPILLO HAIR STYLISTS, 2 Riverina Rd., Shawshen-Andover for complete beauty care. Tel. 475-1639. Hairpieces stocked here. Ample Parking, Relaxing atmosphere. Open 9-6. Fri. 9-8. Merry Christmas to all.

Breaks Records In Swimming

Miss Claudia Cronin, of North Street, broke New England and district records during a recent swim meet held by the YWCA Saturday in Salem.

Miss Cronin, competing with the Lawrence YWCA, broke the New England and district record in winning the 400 yard freestyle with a time of 4:51.4 and the district record in the 100 yard freestyle with 58.7 seconds.

Lawrence won the Northeast District meet, followed by Marblehead and Salem. Other teams in the district include Salem, Lowell, Beverly, Danvers and Haverhill.

Joyce Milligan of Andover broke existing records in the 100 butterfly with a time of 1:08.9 and gained a district record in the breaststroke with 1:19.4.

Cathy White, also of Andover placed second in the breaststroke and third in the individual medley. These girls also teamed together to set a new mark in the 160 yard medley relay.

Susan Macartney placed first in the 60 yard freestyle for novices.

CHRISTMAS CONTRIBUTION. Bonnie Kissell, left, and Claire Nigrelli, check on the collection taken at Raytheon to benefit the Salvation Army Christmas fund.

Raytheon Aids Salvation Army Christmas Fund

The Christmas spirit was made real at Raytheon-Andover, Thursday morning as employees held a special one-hour collection for the plant's annual contribution to the Salvation Army. This year $2,143.36 was collected.

The collection program is based upon the idea that employees donate the money they would ordinarily use to send Christmas cards to fellow employees.

The fund is earmarked to provide an opportunity for Raytheon-Andover to lend a helping hand to families who are unable to have a traditional Christmas because of personal misfortune.

Again this year, the Greater Lawrence Salvation Army has been asked to make and deliver food baskets or other forms of assistance, as appropriate to the particular needs of the family.

Brown Named Captain At Harvard

Andover's Paul Brown has been elected captain of Harvard's freshman squash team.

Playing number one, Brown is undefeated in Harvard's only two matches thus far.

"Paul is an excellent choice for captain," says Coach Corey Wynn. "Not only does he have good fundamentals and a powerful serve, but he always displays excellent sportsmanship."

A social sciences major, Brown won the Interscholastic title at Andover a year ago.

Christmas

It is Christmas once again, a time of joy, to be sure, yet also a time of sadness.

The birth of the Prince of Peace 1968 years ago was meant to free man and bring peace on earth to men of good will.

The feast day brings joy in the bringing together of families.

It brings excitement to the youngsters as they eagerly open their gifts, culminating a rambunctious, sleepless night before.

It brings people closer to Him, since they attend church services and listen to the hymns and carols of the season.

It is a festive occasion. One in which we rejoice for a single day in brotherhood.

But it is also a sad day, for it lasts only 24 hours.

There is a hollow feeling about Christmas just because of this.

The birth of the Prince of Peace was to be something which would free mankind, yet today, we are faced with nations divided, including our own, we are faced with nations battling other nations, we are faced with men fighting against one another.

We see rioting in our streets, we see youthful resentment to authority, we see the turning of our backs to those not of our particular race or creed.

All of these things, the Holy Birth was meant to prohibit.

On Christmas day, there will be peace for a few short hours. There will be brotherhood, and the streets will be quiet. A truce for too brief a period.

Many will worship — for some it will be an annual visit.

Christmas is joyous and should always be. The unfortunate thing is, it lasts but 24 hours.

This year, let us resolve on Christmas day, to preserve that spirit the year 'round — not let it have the hollow ring of just a festive holiday.

Let us pray that the sacred birth 1968 years ago will have a fuller meaning and that in "praising God and saying Glory to God in the highest," we will one day soon see peace on earth and good will to all men.

A Table

As the Christmas holiday arrives, a truce is declared in Vietnam. The armaments are laid down for brief period. But soon the blood of American men will be spilled upon this foreign land while diplomats in France discuss the form of a table to discuss peace in the war torn country.

How ridiculous!

In the pages of this week's TOWNSMAN, our readers will be able to see the families of some of our Andover young men defending our freedom in Vietnam.

There is worry about the safety of their husbands, and sons serving their country.

On Christmas day the families will sit at varied forms of dinner tables, apprehensive of the safety of their loved ones abroad, yet consoled by the peacefulness of togetherness of the family.

It seems pretty ridiculous that the leaders of great nations can not get down to the business of bringing a lasting and permanent peace to Vietnam, simply because no decision can be made as to whether the discussion table should be round, square, oval, etc.

A table is an inanimate object made of wood, but life is flesh and blood and love.

Let the great peace debaters keep this firmly in mind and get out of the wooded area into life itself.

Memorial Hall Library

Christmas Hours

Memorial Hall Library will close at noon today, Dec. 24, and be closed all day Christmas Day in order to allow the library staff to spend Christmas with their families. There will be no Children's story hours for littlest listeners or for school age children in the main library or at Ballardvale branch library until after January 1, 1969.

We hope the townspeople have seen the Christmas displays in the library. There is a beautiful tree in the main reading room, a display of the "Madonna in Art" in the adult reading room, a Christmas creche in the Children's Room and a fascinating display of old fashioned tree ornaments and Victorian toys in the exhibit case near the main entrance. These exhibits will remain until after New Year's Day.

New Service

Library patrons now can play and listen to records through earphones at the library. New cabinets and two phonograph units have been installed in the adult reading room of the library. These arrangements permit two persons to hear a recording at the same time. Earphones may be obtained at the main circulation desk.

To the Editor of the TOWNSMAN: I wish to express my gratitude to the teachers of the Andover High School for their kindness, patience, understanding, and their help in working with me after school hours, between classes, when I had time and they had their own studying to do, papers to correct, and giving of themselves "above and beyond the call of duty". I want to thank everyone from Mr. Wormwood, the principal, to the teachers of my classes; Mr. Davis, who works very hard and makes Biology a fascinating subject, to Mr. Walshe in mathematics, who is just a few years older than my oldest son but who has wisdom beyond his years and the patience of a saint, to my chemistry teacher, Mr. Danforth, who is just "too good to be true", to the teachers who are not my teachers but whom I meet in the Library lounge, who give their precious time helping me, as Mr. Vurgaropoulos did and many others whose names I do not even know, and to those teachers whose paths cross mine in the hallway when we hurry from class to class, who lend a hand whenever I need it. I want to thank the people in the guidance department and their secretaries and the librarians who do not wait till I ask for help but tell me to ask for anything I need. Never have I met so many people so willing to work with me and with all their students. Time and

Faith At Christmas

*Christmas again comes to a troubled world,
We strive to see the light that lightens all therein unfurled:*

*We find it in the laughter of each girl and boy,
Opening gifts beside the Christmas tree, hearts filled with joy;
In carols and in music that will lend
Itself, to stir the true spirit of days on end;
The beauty of a snowflake, the twinkling of a star,
The fragrance of the fir and pine, standing near and far;
Bright lights of Christmas speak their own good will,
To know that we can help each other, thus His word fulfill;
That we, as Christians, know we have the Christ Child in our hearts,
To know that love can conquer, if each plays his part;*

*Therefore the prayers we offer on this new morn
Some day will bring the world in focus, each soul reborn;
Faith lives within us, approaching the bright dawn
We greet the sunrise of a Christmas morn;
Then peace, hope and contentment will be ours too,
For now the light of Christ comes shining through.*

Down The Years With The Townsman

75 Years Ago — December, 1893

The front of T. Murphy's Bakery has been brightened with a new coat of paint.

The last town pay day of the fiscal year will be next Monday, when the selectmen hold their regular monthly meeting.

The annual meeting of the Andover Savings Bank will be held at the bank next Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

No boy need be without a pair of skates, when the Treat Hardware Co. of Lawrence offers at 50 cents a pair. The Eastern Acme skates sold before for $1.50 up to $2.00.

The Christmas trade was, contrary to expectation, quite large and satisfactory at most of the business places. The souvenir crockery at Smith and Manning's proved a very taking thing, and a large amount was disposed of.

The first of a series of social evenings was given in Music Hall in Valpey's block last night, about 25 couples being present. Dancing to the music of the Andover Orchestra was kept up from 8 to 11:45. It made a pleasant gathering.

50 Years Ago — December, 1918

The Primary Department of the South Church Sunday school had a fine Christmas party yesterday afternoon. There was a tree and a present for everyone, thanks to the work of the teachers who had charge of the affair.

An interesting meeting of the Free Church Men's Club is to be held Sunday evening at 7:30 and to be open to the public. A chaplain and two soldiers from Camp Devens will give addresses and the affair is sure to be well worth attending.

The Andover Guild basketball team won from the Wakefield Crescents last Saturday evening with a score of 18 to 11.

Many Andover persons heard and felt the explosion which took place about one o'clock Christmas at the Acton Powder Mill.

The public schools this year have a vacation of five days from Tuesday, the day before Christmas until Monday, Dec. 30. They will also have New Year's Day.

There are now 3900 Andover residents enrolled in the Red Cross, 600 new members joining during the recent canvass.

25 Years Ago — December, 1943

Local firemen dream of White Christmas after fighting 14 blazes, one serious over the past weekend. Andover's Eddie Doherty to be the starting quarterback in the annual East-West Shrine game in San Francisco, according to Head Coach Andy Kerr.

Tyler Rubber Workers sign up to give 150 pints of blood in local drive. Many more donors needed for town-wide drive.

Major town boards hold joint meeting to discuss wage increase policy for employees. Tax rate to rise if increase granted.

Herbert P. Carter elected clerk of West Parish Church for the 23rd consecutive year.

10 Years Ago — December, 1958

Selectmen place themselves on record as favoring a sales tax provided two-thirds of the money collected goes to the cities and towns.

Christmas mail lighter than in 1957. Receipts are increased about 40 per cent.

Burton S. Flagg, president and treasurer of insurance companies in Shawshen announces his retirement after 58 years.

Lively town meeting debate could spring from pay raise question. Police and firefighters to seek ten per cent increase.

William Stewart announces he will seek three year term on the board of selectmen under the new town manager charter.

What Our Readers Say—

To the Editor of the TOWNSMAN:

Apples - A Holiday Treat

Apples for holiday cooking, snacks and decorations headline this week's list of "best buys" in native produce announced by the Massachusetts Department of Agriculture. McIntosh, Baldwin and Cortland, red and golden delicious are all available and reasonably priced from standard storage warehouses. First arrivals from sealed (controlled atmosphere) storage are not due for several weeks.

Holiday menu planners will find native blue Hubbard and butternut squash plentiful and low-priced along with carrots, mushrooms, parsley, parsnips, turnips and Swiss chard. The supply of savory cabbage is adequate for demand and low-priced Greenhouse growers are sending a good volume of lettuce and tomatoes to market again I hear the teachers say, "come in after school if you need help".

My husband is a physician at St. Joseph's Hospital in Lowell and now that our three sons are grown (one a pre-med student) and away at school, I decided that I wanted to become a nurse since medicine has been a field close to our family life. Mr. Wormwood was nice enough to allow me to come into the school as a post-graduate student to pick up the sciences that I lack.

I find it exciting to learn and am overcome by the sincerity and dedication of the teachers to their work and to their students.

Mrs. Jean Michaelson

at money-saving prices. The egg market continues firm with jumbos priced so nearly the same as extra large and large as to deserve the "best buy" rating with mediums the next best. Christmas wreaths from local suppliers are abundant and reasonably priced.

This recipe for Old Fashion Apples Filled with Sweet Potatoes will satisfy holiday appetites:

Peel the upper 1/2 of 8 large Baldwin or Cortland apples. Remove core and enough pulp to leave shell 3/4" thick. Chop pulp and add to 2 cups mashed sweet potatoes. Add 6 tbsps. brown sugar. Roll apples in melted butter and in sugar. Fill apples with sweet potato mixture. Roll again in butter and in sugar and bake in greased baking dish in 300 degree F. oven for 90 minutes or more. Baste frequently with the apple juice.

Today's Agri-Fact:

A living Christmas tree is only a bargain if it's alive when you buy it and properly cared for. Be sure it's freshly dug, carefully balled and burlapped. Reject trees with frozen ball. Trees sprayed with anti-decidant will survive better. To store outdoors, cover ball with straw or peat moss. To use as Christmas tree, stand in tub with 2 inches of water. Wedge upright with kindling and decorate as usual. Can be kept in warm room 10 days adding water as needed. After Christmas, move into garage or porch (above freezing but cool) for a few days, then outside to planting site. Plant in usual manner, mulching to keep out frost.

The winter term program of the Andover YMCA will begin Jan. 4, with 130 sessions scheduled each week in a much expanded offering of courses.

New program developments include: use of gym facilities of the Sacred Heart School, the Greater Lawrence Regional Vocational Technical High School and the West Andover Community Center.

New programs will include an enlarged women's physical fitness and sports program using the Cardinal Cushing Gym, boys' and girls' bowling leagues, introduction of youth clubs, a vacation camp to be conducted in the February school vacation week, offering of ice skating instruction and badminton for women, gym classes for kindergarten children, start of a physical education program for St. Augustine's School, a training course for Tiny Tot gym class instructors. A junior high school girls' basketball league, and additional handcraft classes for women and girls. Five Bancroft school morning programs will be continued in view of the delay in the opening of the new school.

Christmas

We do not have the Peace on Earth this Christmas that Christ so earnestly beseeched us to pursue. As more and more governments of the world are expressing a distaste for war and are organizing politically to keep the peace, there is hope that the Prince of Peace may yet realize his cherished dream for all mankind.

Sorority Entertains Patients

Hoping to bring a bit of Christmas cheer to patients of the state hospital at Tewksbury, members of Andover Beta Mu Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority have been collecting candy and small personal items such as combs and tissues, which will be packaged in gay red bags. These bags, each of which so carries a personally signed Christmas message, will be placed on the patients' breakfast trays on Christmas morning. Service Chairman Mrs. Frank M. Simons has coordinated the efforts of the chapter members in this project.

Mrs. Henry G. Bronson, Jr., chapter president, was hostess at the Sorority's annual silver tea honoring new members Mrs. William Garrett, Mrs. John Hoelzel, Mrs. George Saalfrank and Mrs. George Walsh. Past President Mrs. Duncan Black acted as co-hostess in place of Mrs. Richard C. White, membership chairman, who was unable to be present. Mrs. David Lockwood of Xi Sigma Exemplar Chapter and Mrs. Bronson poured at the December 8 event.

Chapter members and their husbands celebrated Christmas with a cocktail party on Dec. 15 at the home of Mrs. and Mrs. John F. Murphy, Jr., 60 Chestnut St. which concluded with the arrival of Santa Claus who distributed gifts to all the guests.

IN PLAY. Emily Sullivan, left and Kenneth DiPeri, will play lead roles in the presentation of "Amahl and the Night Visitors," Saturday night in Davis Hall, Phillips Academy.

Famed Christmas Play Scheduled At Abbot

"Amahl and the Night Visitors" will be presented once again in Andover by the Boston Intimate Opera. The performance will be sung on Saturday, Dec. 28 at 4 p.m. in Davis Hall at Abbot Academy.

The main lead in Sunday's performance will be sung by Kenneth Di Per, a ten year old boy from Boston. Emily Sullivan will sing the role of the mother. Margot Warner, head of the music department at Abbot, will direct the opera.

The Boston Intimate Opera was founded by Miss Warner in 1952 as a training ground for professional singers. The group is presenting three operas this year in addition to "Amahl and the Night Visitors". Amahl is the only performance to be sung in this area.

Since the hero of the story is a young boy, Amahl is considered particularly suitable as family entertainment and children of all ages are invited to attend. The performance is open to the public at no charge.

A Check On America's Image Among The Students

(Tenth of a Series)

By George Speers

General Manager

New England Press Association

One of the many things I wanted to learn about during my stay in Germany was how the German people feel about the United States. I was most interested to find out how Germans view the problems that we have in America today.

Every German with whom I talked had knowledge of the major U. S. problems. Leading the list is the question of Vietnam. Also, of course, are the problems of racial unrest, recent assassinations, the upcoming Presidential elections, and the leadership position of America in the world.

I discussed some of these problems with students in their homes and in Weinstubes (wine halls) in Frankfurt until after 2:00 a.m. I did the same until 3:00 a.m. in the home of another student in Berlin. In both home visits a number of student friends were invited so we had groups of from eight to about 15.

In addition I discussed the problems with newspaper editors and publishers, local and Federal Republic officials, taxi drivers, lawyers, and even a few housewives.

The problems were discussed with businessmen and also with two very high officials from India who happened to be visiting Germany when I was there. One Indian is a Minister (equivalent to our Cabinet officers) and another is comparable to Speaker John McCormack in the U. S. House of Representatives.

No matter where or with whom the discussions took place, the first topic became Vietnam.

The question that arose from just about every source was--from students to editors--"How did you allow yourselves to get involved in Vietnam?"

In most cases, America's intentions of trying to help South Vietnam to determine its own destiny without outside pressures, were quite understood. Some even said these intentions are noble.

But the overwhelming majority of opinions added up to America's being involved in a hopeless, internal situation and this never should have happened. America should get out of Vietnam, as soon as possible, was the strong consensus.

When the question was asked "How should this be done?", no real answers were forthcoming.

Many of the students and the Indian officials (at separate meetings and at different times) did have one opinion in common: "Get out now, period."

The editors, publishers, officials, and others were more searching and thoughtful in their answers. They felt that somehow the U.S. should find some way to leave, yet not in such a way as to abandon the Asian nations such as the Philippines, Australia, Laos, Cambodia, etc. with whom the U.S. has made commitments.

A number of Germans, students and non students alike, indicated that South Vietnam doesn't understand democracy anyway and that when the U.S. eventually leaves that part of the world South Vietnam will become Communist. The people themselves are only interested in peace and rice, and not politics.

Some students said it appears to them that the U.S. is attempting to impose a U.S. "brand of democracy" on South Vietnam. One said he sometimes thinks the U.S. has a kind of "hero complex" and the U.S. apparently thinks it can install American democracy everywhere.

Although these may not be, as I suspect they are not, representative opinions of the German people, they seem to be common student opinions and therefore perhaps of passing interest.

One Indian official, with whom I had dinner in Frankfurt, spent nearly the entire time criticizing America and its policies, especially the U.S. foreign policy. He said a number of times in strong terms that the U.S. should get out of Vietnam immediately. The U.S. is meddling in "internal matters" he said.

Near the end of the dinner I asked one question.

"Do you think it would be in India's best interests if the U.S. left Vietnam next week or next month or in the very near future?" I asked.

"No. It would not," he said quite emphatically.

I mention this little incident only to underscore the conflicting opinions and what seems to be a considerable amount of confusion in thinking regarding America and its position in Vietnam.

Underlying most of the discussions I had concerning the U.S. and its problems is the question of America's leadership in the world. This is in the minds of most thinking Europeans, not only Germans. It came through to me very strongly when I visited "Common Market" officials in Brussels, Belgium. Here I talked with Belgians, Italians, Frenchmen, and others. All are concerned about America's leadership. It is commonly accepted that America is the leader of the world although beset by many problems. If it isn't the U.S. that is the leader, then the other alternative, like it or not, probably will be the U.S.S.R. And this thought makes nobody happy in Western Europe. Even the Indian officials recoil a little at this thought.

Although America's problems--whether racial, Vietnam, or whatever--preoccupy much sympathetic European thinking, few answers seem to come out of this concern. I asked many times for suggestions. But it is far easier to ask than answer, as many Americans know here in the U.S.

One opinion that seems to be widely held in Germany--and in much of Europe, I'm told--is that the recent tragic assassinations in America are all tied in to an "organized plot" of some kind.

WORK IS A CHARACTERISTIC that stands out in Germany. Everywhere people are working and workingmen and women take great pride in what they do for a living. The post war German economy has expanded to the point where severe labor shortages exist in many occupations. Laborers from Spain, Italy, Greece, Yugoslavia, Turkey and other countries work for months and even years for the higher wages in Germany.

and said the negotiating sessions were a good forum for making educational progress and working out problems in the system. She cited the AEA proposals for thorough study of use of teachers' aides throughout the system, and their cooperation in dropping the 1967 contract clause which did not permit deviation from salary increments.

AEA's Ralph Duncan said that the two groups had accomplished something that both could be pleased with.

The AEA's Ralph Duncan told the TOWNSMAN that both sides could be pleased with updating working conditions to make them more effective in terms of the teacher, the school committee and administration, and with making salaries more competitive. He claimed real strides had been made in working conditions for Unit C.

He added that the school committee's attitude at the bargaining table had not been one of hostility, but of good faith.

It is inconceivable to most Germans that these are isolated acts of deranged individuals. This theory is just not comprehensible. It makes no sense at all to them.

On the U.S. elections, there is a great anticipation that good leadership will be forthcoming. This is sorely lacking now, they feel. There seems to be no agreement on who would make the best President. But there is great agreement, and an almost fervent hope, for an outstanding leader befitting the status America still has in the world despite its great problems.

U. N. Resolution On Human Environment

By Polly Bradley

The Resolution on Human Environment adopted December 3 by the United Nations General Assembly is expected to encourage international co-operation to defend mankind against its own pollution of oceans, air, and earth. The new resolution, presented to the Assembly by Sverker C. Astrom, the Swedish representative, was sponsored by Sweden and about 50 other nations, including the United States. It calls for a United Nations Conference on Human Environment, to be held in 1972.

A primary purpose of the conference will be to search for ways the nations of the world can work together to "eliminate the impairment of human environment." In addition, it is hoped that governments which have given little consideration to long-term conservation questions will be forced to think about these problems in preparation for the world-wide meeting.

United Nations Secretary General Thant was asked in the resolution to prepare a report for next year's General Assembly about the nature, scope, and progress of research now under way in the field of human environment. He will also report on pollution problems facing various countries and potential areas for world-wide action. The report will be presented through the Economic and Social Council and prepared in consultation with the advisory committee on the application of science and technology to development.

Speaking before the United States General Assembly, Swedish Ambassador Astrom spoke of the necessity for all nations to realize the dangers of uncontrolled pollution and plunder of water, air, and soil resources. He said, "Even if we avoid the risk of blowing up the planet, we may, by changing its face, unwittingly be parties to a process with the same fateful outcome."

Astrom said that pollution does not respect man-made frontiers and is therefore an international problem. "It is urgent to compel governments to take note of this problem and think seriously about it."

The resolution emphasized the problems of increasing water and air pollution, soil erosion and deterioration through overuse, long-term effects of pesticides and dangerous chemicals, and the emotional effects of noise and pressure of urbanization.

Faculty Entertains Students

East Junior High school students were treated to a Christmas program put on by the faculty on Friday. The teachers gave the party as a treat for the students with Science Teacher Ted Boudreau acting as Santa Claus.

There were three decorated boxes on the stage. Out of one appeared Christa Wolf, teacher, who sang. From a second box came David Edelman, who gave a syn-copated jazz medley ala Liberace.

Out of the third box stepped Ralph Duncan who gave a professional magic show.

J. Everett Collins directed the singing which followed. The singers were trained by Barbara Fogg.

The program concluded with a swinging version of Jingle Bells.

The Night Before Christmas

One familiar poem has shaped the wishful dreams of many a child who goes to sleep on Christmas Eve, still straining his ears for sounds of Santa.

In many a family with young children, it is a tradition to read this poem, by Clark Clement

Moore, after hanging up the Christmas stockings.

In response to request, and as a service to parents who think they know it by heart, but bog down after six lines, the TOWNSMAN takes pleasure in lending a hand:

A VISIT FROM ST. NICHOLAS

T'was the night before Christmas when all through the house,
Not a creature was stirring, not even a mouse;
The stockings were hung by the chimney with care,
In hopes that St. Nicholas soon would be there;
The children were nestled all snug in their beds,
While visions of sugarplums danced in their heads;
And Mama in her kerchief and I in my cap,
Had just settled our brains for a long winter's nap,
When out on the lawn there arose such a clatter,
I sprang from the bed to see what was the matter.
Away to the window I flew like a flash,
Tore open the shutters and threw up the sash.
The moon on the breast of the newfallen snow
Gave the lustre of mid-day to objects below,
When, what to my wondering eyes should appear,
But a miniature sleigh and eight tiny reindeer,
With a little old driver so lively and quick,
I knew in a moment it must be St. Nick.
More rapid than eagles his coursers they came,
And he whistled and shouted and called them by name:
"Now, Dasher! Now, Dancer! Now Prancer and Vixen!
On, Comet! On Cupid! On Donner and Blitzen!
To the top of the porch! To the top of the wall!
Now dash away! Dash away! Dash away all!"
As dry leaves before the wild hurricane fly,
When they meet with an obstacle mount to the sky;
So up to the housetop the coursers they flew
With a sleigh full of Toys, and St. Nicholas too.
And then, in a twinkling, I heard on the roof
The prancing and pawing of each little hoof.
As I drew in my head, and was turning around,
Down the chimney St. Nicholas came with a bound,
He was dressed all in fur, from his head to his foot,
And his clothes were all tarnished with ashes and soot;
A bundle of Toys he had slung on his back,
And he looked like a peddler just opening his pack.
His eyes - how they twinkled! His dimples how merry!
His cheeks were like roses, His nose like a cherry!
His droll little mouth was drawn up like a bow,
And the beard of his chin was as white as the snow;
The stump of a pipe he held tight in his teeth,
And the smoke it encircled his head like a wreath;
He had a broad face and a round little belly
That shook when he laughed like a bowlful of jelly.
He was chubby and plump, a right jolly old elf,
And I laughed when I saw him in spite of myself;
A wink of his eye and a twist of his head,
Soon gave me to know I had nothing to dread;
He spoke not a word, but went straight to his work,
And filled all the stockings, then turned with a jerk,
And laying his finger aside of his nose,
And giving a nod, up the chimney he rose;
He sprang to his sleigh, to his team gave a whistle,
And away they all flew like the down of a thistle.
But I heard him exclaim, ere he drove out of sight,
"Happy Christmas to all, and to all a good night."

- Clark Clement Moore

SAFE WINTER DRIVING TIPS

You may not be able to change winter, but you can change winter driving. Have your local service station dealer give your car the check-up it needs for top winter performance, and keep in mind the following points:

□ Cooling System. Drain and refill antifreeze annually. This protects against freeze-up and replenishes rust and corrosion inhibitors.

□ Change Oil. When winter comes your car's oil must be able to give top engine performance. Periodic oil changes replenish the important additives that help keep engines clean and prevent rusting and corrosion of critical internal parts.

□ Filters. Driving builds up deposits on air, oil and fuel filters. Stop trouble before it starts by having them replaced if they have been in service longer than recommended by the car manufacturer.

□ Wipers. Wet your windshield and turn your wipers on for a few moments. If they skip or streak, you should have the rubber blades replaced.

□ Defroster. Check your defroster separately from your heater to be sure it cleans your windows of frost or condensation.

"Joy to the World!"
May your Christmas truly be a joyful one, rich in spiritual blessings and the happiness of family and home.

Garden Clubs Decorate Hospital

Members of the Four Seasons Garden Club, joined with other Greater Lawrence Garden clubs Friday to decorate the Lawrence General Hospital for the holidays. Mrs. Frederick Collins, chairman of the beautification committee headed the group aided by Mrs. Warren Oldaker.

The members recently held their December meeting at the home of Mrs. Bruce Johnson, 27 Summer St. Mrs. Roy Deveau and Mrs. Roger Ives, co-hostesses, served cream of peanut soup, a traditional Christmas favorite from the King's Arms Tavern, Williamsburg, Va., as well as other specialties.

After a business meeting conducted by Mrs. Roland West, a program on Christmas decorations, past and present, was given by the members. A Christmas cookie swap was the final activity of the meeting.

The club's next activity will be Dec. 30 when members will again gather at Lawrence General Hospital to take down the holiday decorations and store them for the Hospital Aid Society.

IN PROGRAM

William A. Dewhurst and Douglas R. Drobns of Andover, have enrolled for the fall and winter session in the evening division of the Babson graduate program. Babson is a college of management in Wellesley Hills.

cer team to receive his numerals for inter collegiate competition.
Stulgis played left inside on the team.

Board Allows
Lot Division

A variance to allow the division of two lots at 42-48 Red Spring
Road, has been granted to Roger W. Collins, 50 Maple Ave., by the zoning board of appeals.

In a decision filed this week by the board with the town clerk, it was found that the division of the lots would not be a detriment to the public good and also that failure to do so would present substantial hardship on the owner.

There were no objections to the petition which was heard at a public hearing in November.

Supreme's New Pressing Machine

All work at Supreme Cleaners in the Shawshen Plaza is done right on the premises by their own help. This means that Supreme can offer immediate service on both shirts and dry cleaning. For example, they can return men's shirts laundered, starched, pressed and packaged on the very same day that they are brought in, if you wish. It takes Supreme only three hours for this service.

You can have one hour service on dry cleaning if necessary. A garment brought in at 2 in the afternoon will be ready to pick up at 3. All garments are drycleaned by Supreme's odorless cleaning process. Every garment is carefully checked, hand spotted and pressed.

At the present time, Supreme is featuring a convenient storage service which will enable you to enjoy much-needed closet space in your home. In this program, Supreme will store all your extra woollens or any other garments in the plant's modern storage vaults. Garments, drapes and other household items stored in this box storage program will have complete fire, moth, theft and heat protection.

Supreme Cleaners also does alterations and tailoring work, as well as zipper repairs. So if a garment needs repair before you have it dry cleaned and pressed, there's no need to take it to a tailor first. Supreme can do the entire job for you quickly and efficiently.

For the finest in dry cleaning service plus expert advice on all your dry cleaning problems, visit this modern plant. Al Hatem and his staff at Supreme provide their customers with a wide range of cleaning services that are guaranteed to please the most discriminating people. There is always plenty of parking space in the Shawshen Plaza and you can do several errands at one time. Supreme Cleaners is open daily from 7 A.M. to 9 P.M., except Saturdays when they close at 6.

Position requires capability to work with and accept an engineering release, or change from engineering for production.
Candidate must be capable of using the necessary ground rules in writing and organizing releases and/or changes established by the customer. Must recognize and overcome technical and commercial problems that may occur during the processing procedure with a minimum of supervision. These projects are scheduled by engineering change coordinators and directly affect shipping dates and contractual commitments. A high degree of speed and accuracy is required.

Speech Courses Considered By School Committee

The School Committee heard reports on secondary public speech courses at its last meeting, and considered the benefits of emphasizing oral skills in the elementary grades.

An optional course in public speaking was introduced at the high school this fall, English teacher John Boyle reported to the school committee.

Boyle is teaching the course, and said he sees a great need for it. He finds that the majority of students are afraid to get up and speak before a group. The course stresses practice and technique, in a number of different types of public address.

According to the teacher, who also handles the dramatic end of spring musical which the high school presents, the course has grown through teacher referrals, and he hopes to make it a credit course, with letter grading next year.

Debating will also be initiated, with a first informal debate with Beverly High School, another school just entering this field. In January, Boyle said, he will take his students to a formal interscholastic debate at Phillips Academy, which has a highly developed debating program.

The interested committee next heard a report on the 10-week public speaking program being initiated at West Junior High School. Mrs. Doris Bernardin, teacher of this ninth grade enrichment course, said she worked with groups of 10-15 students for about an hour a week. She told the committee that she was stressing content and direction of thought - the ability to think on one's feet - as well as elocution techniques.

Both Boyle and Mrs. Bernardin agreed with school committeeman William A. Doherty that training in public speaking should start well below the junior high school. Doherty would like to see it begin in the first grade.

Assistant Superintendent Vaughn I. Clapp pointed out that the elementary schools would probably end up writing their own English curriculum, after study of various English curriculum offerings. He said that the curriculum would undoubtedly be orally oriented, as that is how language is initially learned by children.
